"Masterpiece..."

A FITTING TERM

FOR HOMES BUILT BY HIGH COUNTRY BUILDERS

Giles and Elizabeth Thornton's "Glass Forest". ▲

High Country Builders' dedication to the craft of designing and building outstanding high-end custom homes is deeply rooted. From the vision and guidance that Walt Landi provides, to the individual nails driven by one of our skilled carpenters, we take pride in each and every aspect of constructing a client's home. We are delighted that our dedication to perfection earned us six awards in the 2005 Parade of Homes™, including Judges' Choice, Best Architectural Appeal, Best Interior Décor, Best Kitchen, Best of Class, and, most importantly, Best Craftsmanship.

Our clients put their trust in High Country Builders and the fact that we will provide them with the home of their dreams. We take that trust very personally and strive to create a one-of-a-kind masterpiece for them. "Masterpiece" is a fitting term for homes built by High Country Builders. We don't just build houses; we create custom home environments that accentuate the Montana lifestyle while meeting the individual needs of the client. We do this by integrating all aspects of architectural design, construction, and interior design into one package.

In reality, High Country Builders is a design/build/design company. We have the expertise to design your home, build it, and decorate it inside and out. It is a process that begins with listening intently to our clients' needs and desires. We then turn discussion into reality. This entails not only designing the home's blueprints, but designing how it will feel. To accomplish this, we use our intimate knowledge of the materials, colors, and textures that will be used in a project, and our skill to integrate them into a pleasing and functional manner. High Country Builders looks forward to the opportunity of working with new clients and creating a masterpiece they can call their own.

Our work at The Homestead, a new development just west of Whitefish, is a perfect example of High Country Builders elegant twist on the rustic mountain home. In all the core structures of the development, we are utilizing reclaimed materials including logs, hand-hewn timbers and barn wood siding to set the proper tone and ambiance befitting this special place called "The Homestead." This is a perfect example of High Country Builders Design/Build/Design expertise. ◆
